ATV Maine signs and renews their Motorsports Commercial General Liability policy, making liability coverage available from September 3, 2015 to September 3, 2016 to our affiliated ATV club members.

ATV Maine offers a Motorsports Commercial General Liability (CGL) policy, covering ATV Maine member clubs' activities/events and includes Bodily Injury to Participants - also known as Participant Legal Liability coverage - with a requirement being a program in place to obtain Release and Waiver of Liability forms dated and signed by all participants.

More landowners are requesting ATV clubs to provide proof of insurance to have trails on their property. Landowners are automatically included as an additional insured within ATV Maine's policy. If a landowner requests a Certificate of Insurance as an additional insured, we can certainly do this.

Clubs will receive a letter of explanation from ATV Maine of their coverage.

ATV Maine recognizes there are other options for insurance but we remind our members this policy is not an event-only liability policy, this is an annual Motorsports Commercial General Liability policy and covers more than one event a year. This policy is in compliance with the Irving Woodlands LLC contract, such that an event-only policy would not be allowed. We are also within the expectations of the Division of Parks and Public Lands' requirements with respect to grant reimbursement for a Motorsports Commercial General Liability (CGL) policy.

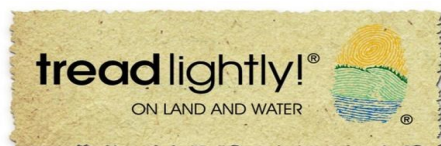

We are pleased to provide you with liability insurance and certainly access this link for familiarity of where our policy is generated from:

Tami M. Kane
ATV Maine President

Pine Grove Program is having their free annual ATV ride on September 20th with Moose Alley Riders; starting at Pine Grove Lodge and ride to Breezy Acres Camps in Solon for lunch, and then back to Pine Grove Lodge again for dinner. Any veteran that would like a ride with someone can sign up and we'll match him or her with a volunteer driver. We also have veterans with their own machine ride along with us. For more information, go to -- <http://www.pinegroveprogram.com/> and click on the calendar of events for September.

MARKING TRAILS FOR LEVELS OF DIFFICULTY

By Terry Sinclair

Trail ease or difficulty is a real dilemma to anyone riding. For the new or infrequent rider this can be an unexpected problem that could ruin their fun day. Things have improved with trail numbers and maps; still, trail difficulty is not known or marked anywhere on a trail sign, with few exceptions.

The suggestion for trail difficulty marking is based on the same system used by the ski industry – North American Trail Ratings use a green circle for easy, a blue square for intermediate, a black diamond for difficult, and a double black diamond for very difficult. Like ATV trails, ski trails are also a combination of things.

Would trail difficulty markers make any difference to ATVing? It would to a reasonably new rider; to an experienced rider, it might not. To any rider, it would be a piece of quick information to help with the decision concerning difficulty, along with the easiest or fastest route of travel. Especially at the end of a long day of riding and a tired rider wants to get safely back to their starting point.

The current effort to make sure all ATV trails have assigned trail numbers, with destination information, is a great step forward in improving how to get there from here. Could the adding of a trail difficulty marker be the logical next step? I do like the safety aspect of the idea.

All ATV'ers are required to follow a trail. Most do not review a topographical map before their ride. Maybe someone has been on that trail previously – remembering whether it had sections that were difficult. When unfamiliar with a trail, any information one can gather ahead of time will make that day's ride more enjoyable. For all who use Maine's recreational trails, this would be good customer service and help ensure return visits.

Please remember to tread lightly, respect all landowners, and ride with safety in mind!

Message from Brian Bronson being sent to registered ATV'ers in the Limington area:
The Limington Wheelers ATV Club is on the verge of closing.

If they are not able to keep the club going, the trails will close this fall and there will not be a local trail system next year.

There is a meeting scheduled for 7:00 p.m. on September 30, 2015 at the Limington Town Office - with the hopes of additional support to help maintain the status of this club and the trail system.
